BLUK BLOOD. Doctor Ottignon's Experiment.

BY BELLE BEECHWOOD.

Juliet Averell had never known anything about her parents, or rather she tiguon had done everything in his power to guard against her ever being questioned in regard to them. If she had any memory of a time when she knew relatives other than the docter and his wife, it was so dim that it made no impression on her mind; and she was accepted by all of their friends as his niece-the child of his sister. Her strong resemblance to Mrs. Lamont, which became more marked as she grew older, was not much observed by those familiar with both of them; but strangers noted it, and Jose Navarro several times spoke of it to Dr. Ottignon, who assured him, as he had often assured himself, that the resemblance was entirely accidental; and the doctor for years supposed that he possessed abun dant proof that he was justified in his belief; and Mrs. Lamont, though she had never overcome her interest in, her ceased to be greatly excited by her

A short time previous to the exhibition at the seminary, however, Dr. Otlisturbed him. He had spoken of it to no one-not even to his wife; he had not replied to it, though it demanded a reply; it reminded him of some things which he had tried in vain to forget; of things of which he had hoped that he would never be reminded again. He knew that he had no right to disregard that letter, and yet he had disregarded it: but that conversation with his wife in which he owned that he expected that Jose Navarro would marry duliet, aroused him to the importance of attending to that letter. And yet, with a want of decision, very remarkable in after week to pass, knowing that at any moment the writer of the letter might carry out threats contained therein. That Jose was becoming deeply nt tached to Juliet was very evident. He was frequently a guest at the house of of Mr. Lamout; he would have been readily accepted by the wealthy banker as a suitor for the hand of his daughter; but he showed no inclination to take any advantage of his influence with her father to win the love of Eleanor. For him the house which at the time was his home afforded attractions far greater than the most brilliant title in Europe coubl afford. But while Jose was so indifferent to the charms of Eleanor Lamont, so meglectful of his opportunities to ally himself with a noble family, his friend Maurice, who knew nothing of the prospect that her father would succeed to the proud title of an English earl. became very devoted to her and she favored the light-hearted, genial, rather indignitied brother of her friend Mabel, much more than she did the darkeyed Cuban. Dr. Ottignon would have been perfectly satisfied to let matters take their course, but for one thing. He believed that doss Navarro, despite his once to birth, lovel Juliet ton well to allow anything he might hear to regard to her parents to deter him from marrying her. What he feared, what he had reason to the truth in regard to herself, and refuse ther was a villain. She at least is the at the success. I hardly think you loved her mind as attractive as her beauty.

Juliet had never known what it was to love, except with such affection as she bestowed upon her uncle and munt and other near friends, but Jose bud notleed more than once how the color would fade from her face at the slightest mention of his intention to return to England.

But he had too much honor to address words of love to her mill he had rerelyed the consent of her only relative and guardian, though he did not, could not for a moment doubt that he would obtain that consent; and therefore one afternoon about two months after he list met hos, he requested a private interview with Dr. Ottlgnon; a request which was of course granted with pleas-

Jose came at once to the point, and told his old friend that he had loved his nicce from the first moment he saw her, and that his whole future happiness depended upon receiving her consent to become his wife, but that he felt it to be his duty to speak to her guardian

Dr. Ottlgaon had seldom if ever listened to more welcome words; there was no one whom he so highly estcemed as he did Jose Navarro; and yet he hesitated before he replied, and unconscionsly his hand wandered towards u drawer in the desk before him, from which he took a folded paper which he nervously crumpled. Jose noticed the hesitation and was surprised at it, but before he could express his surprise, the doctor spoke, but in a tone so constrained, so different from his usual one, that his compution would not have rec-ogulzed the voice had he not seen the "I to

A Good Idea.
The Chief Engineer of our fire department has in consideration, the question of celebrating the coming fourth of July by a parade of the entire department, a trial of engines and the book and halder truck and also, perhaps, a good dinner, at which all three companies will unite and smoke the pipe of peace while they sing of leattles fought and victories won. This proposition is a very good one, and if properly carried out, it cannot fail to be a success. Two years ago the fire department took part little paradeattending the observance of our centennial, and did themselves great crolli by their fine appearance and excellent deportment. Why not have a parade this year on the fourth of July? No day could be more appropriate or convenient. It is the only holblay until Navember, and It is well that this holiday should be more generally observed, not only la our own town but in handreds of others through out the land. A parade and trial of the fire department is not in liself a great event, but may possibly lead to something better, and is agood idea. Anything which tends to keep alive the love of country the lave of liberty, the memories of those who fompled our free Institutions, and the memories of those who defended them, is good. The lesson of pairholism cannot be learned too thoroughly, and once a year will not be too often for its rehearsal.

In these times of uncertainty and mutual distrust, when defalcations are almost dally discovered and brought before the public through the medium of the press, and corruption of every variety prevails in high idaces, it is refreshing to find men who are true to their trust, uncorrupted taldst general corruption, faithful in the discharge of their duty. Among our town officers who have earned for themselves, by their energy, perseverance and untilring industry the confidence and respect of their fellow-citizens, the writer mentions with confidence our popular and efficient police officer, Mr. B. J. Loring, Jr., and Mr. Albert Hobart, Highway Surveyor. Under their efficient management the duties of their offices have heet performed promptly, dilligently and impartially, and we are pleased to accord "honor to whom honor is due," X. Y. Z.

HINGHAM.

Rev. Edw. C. Hood, poster of the Evangelical Cong'l Church, Hingham, was married last evening, to Miss Carrie O., daughter of Mr. Toddas Gardner, at the residence of her father, on North street, by Rev. S. E. Herrick, of the Mount Vernon Church. Baston, assisted by Rev. Geo. E. Hood, of a Emura, N. 1., tainer of the gnom. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, and about 300 friends were present at the reception, including all the resident clergy of Hingham and also from Weymouth. Braintree and other towns. The presents were numerous and valuable, including an elegant silver tea service, presented by the Cong'l Soriety. The happy couple left Hingham about 10 P. M. on a special train, for a bridal tour, a large party of friends accompanying them to the

He went on to say that on a certain voyage he called there and for a little diversion climbed up the side of a volcame and rolled down great stone's of half a ton's weight, which would playfully bound through the shantles of the Canneks in the vale below. Growing weary of this innomountain. On reaching the summit he bound himself standing on the rim of a circular crater twenty feet in diameter. He could catch glimpses of the further side through the puffs of smoke and being still in a playful and chibllike frame of mind spent an hour or two, leaping back and torth across the inviting opening. B. listened very attentively until A, concluded and then inquired as to the preelse location of this particular volcano. This information having been furnished B, inquited, "Its what year were you there?" "Ju 1828," replied A. [7] "Well," continued B., "I was there In 1560, and there was no such volvano there then. How its you account for that ?" 2007 said A , touoving his clay pipe in a letter from our old friend, J. S. Porter, now located at Chaitanouga, Tenn., he says he is much better pleased with the South than he autlelpated, especially in the manifestations of friendly feeling towards new-comers from the North. As an evi dence of this gratifying condition of society in that locality, we quote an article from The Chattanooga Times, which says:

"Apart from the capital turned in this direction, attracted by making known the possession of enormous resources, we are procuring a steady stream of frugal, industrious immigrants—a source of wealth to the Stale. We are thus replacing an outflowing stream of emigration, on the part of a large monder who are discontented and who are mable to adapt themselves to the changed condition of affairs in Tennessee. The value of this movement can scattely be estimated just mow, it is a direct increase of wealth, an addition to the productive capacity of the State, and if it adds nill-hours to the production, it diminishes in no respect the profits of production, but on the contrary increases them, for the larger our production the more important is our market to the rest of the world." the Chattanooga Times, which says:

A MEMORIAL SERVICE.

The Metropolltan M. E. Church in Washington was the scene of a service on a recent Sunday, in memory of Cornella Chisolm, and her father and brother, who fell victims to the harlur-Itles of a Southern mob last year, and whose tragic end is thus depleted by a

Mrs. Chisolm mourned the brave, strong, true, loving husband who had proved her never-falling staff; the beautiful boy, tender as a girl, brave as a man; and the still more beautiful daughter, who, with the dew of her virgin youth upon her, was strong enough and brave enough to die for man, and der, bullets, and wadding, besides provisions, secreted on her person, to her father in jail. She stood gazing through the grates of his cell upon the glastly mob without, sure of what his fate was to be. When she saw it advancing she fell upon her knees and cried;

"Oh! why do you trent my papn bad? He never has harmed any one in his life, much less may of you, so many of whom have taken food from his

All the same, with lond and angry shouts and oaths, they chopped the cell door in with axes. Guns were thrust through the grates, and fired within at random. Seeing that the door must soon give way, Cornelia took up an armful of guus, left by the gunrd, and carried them to her father. She was Cornelia and Johnny, with a courage scarcely ever before recorded in the annals of great and chivalric deeds, endeavored to hold the door back ngainst the fearful odds. It gave wny, aml Rosser's gun shot off Johnny's right arm. So close was the muzzle his clothes were set on fire. He screamed with fright. His brother Clny seized him, to bear him away. He wrested himself from his brother, and, rushing back, set his unwounded little shoulder again against the door. In vain. The door flew open; when Johnny rushed to his father's arms, crying: "Don't strength against the monster. "Go away!" he cried, or I'll blow your special object of his linte.

my darling papa, who has never done you a wrong." The answer to this appeal was a heavy shot from the monster's gun, which struck a heavy gold bracelet into her arm, "the bullet shattering the bone from the wrist to the elbow. Shot and bleeding from a score two great novels of the season-"Macof wounds, she still clung with one re- leod of Dare" and "The Return of the maining arm to her beloved father, to push aside the gnns leveled at his breast." Thus defemled, he was shot from front and rear. As his wife caught publican and would live a free man." Fifteen large duck-shot and one buckshot were thus lodged in Cornelia's leg, while mother passed through the rannter of her shoe into her foot. This was overlooked, in the multiplicity of her other injuries, and never was discovered until after her death-though before that time her heel had become very much swollen and inflamed-when upon the examination of the shoe, the place where the shot entered was found. A missile of some kindalsøstræk her hip. Hour; Hugh Latimer; Bird Architec causing a severe and painful sore. Thirty bullet-holes were counted in the skirts of her clothing, which was a mass of blood, from the little silk hood which she wore on her head down to her shoes. On receiving the last charge, she ran back to her mother, exclaiming: "Oh! mamma, they have shot me again!" This was the first and only exclamation she made throughout concerning her own wounds.

As if all this mutilating were not enough, while she was descending the stairs, toru and bleeding, a devil in the shape of a man struck her upon ber w unded face. When she was laid in her cutiu, the marks of this more than brutal blow were plainly visible.

If it were necessary to give a reason for the memorial services held last Sabbath for this martyred family, it can be found in the facts which attended their real burial:

"Within sight of three Christian churches, one after another the victims sank and died; and not a minister of the Gospel nor a member of the congregation with which the mother and mur-dered daughter worshiped ever offered to cross the threshold of the house of to cross the threshold of the house of mourning. One after another the mangled forms were carried out and burled, with just enough hands to perform the manual labor incident thereto; and not a requiem was sung nor a benediction offered, save only the prayers which came silently and spontaneously from the hearts of the faithful few who stood

The New York Sun touches up the "sared'' service of song in that city last Sun-

"The 'Service of Song' was bountifully endered yesterday. There was a sacred dime concertat the Cooper Institute, where Don Ferreyra, the great Portuguese mantime pionsly performed times on his fingers in lieu of a finte. There was a sacred concert in the Brooklyn Academy of Music, another in the Tivoli Theatre, and two more in the Atlantic Garden. There was a sscreil 25-cent cuncert in the Grand Opera House, and a sacred 50-cent concert in GIImore's Garden, where Goldmark's ballet music and Stranss's waitzes added solemuity to the worship. At the Park Theatre there was an extremely sacred concert by the brethren and sisters of Mile. Almee's flock, who sang choice psalms from Leconq and Flotow, Interspersed with such hymna as 'She's Just a Sweet Thurquet,' and 'Ne me chatouillez pas.' This Sarsaparlila is a combination of vegetable alteratives — Stillugia. Mandrake, Yellow Dock — with the lodildes of Potassium and Iron, and is the most efficacions medicine yet known for the diseases it is intended to cure. Its ingredients are soskilfully combined, that the full alterative effect of each is assured, and while it is so mild as to be harmless even to children, it is still so effectual as to purge out from the asstem those impurities and corruptions system those impurities and corruptions which develop into loathsome disease.

The reputation it enjoys ts derived from its cures, and the confidence which prominent physicians all over the country repose in it, prove their experience of its nacfainess.

Certificates attesting lits virtues have accumulated, and are constantly being received, and as many of these cases are publicly known, they furnish convincing evidence of the superiority of this Sarsaparilla over every other alterative medicine. So generally is its superiority to any other modicine known, that we need do no more than to assure the public that the best qualities it has ever possessed are strictly maintained.

He hastened at once to the house of Dr. Ottignon, to whom he presented the note, which was as follows:

"The truth of the bearer of this note has induced me to speak the truth. He would marry the one whom he and you suppose to be my daughter, and I honor and respect bis faithfulness so much that I will not deceive him. The one whom you have called Juliet Averell is no more my child than she is your niece, for revenge, that those who heard did and she is rightfully entitled to a name moch prouder than the one by which she has been known. Tomorrow I will call upon you and disclose everything." There was no address and no signa-

The signals, so arranged that the engineer of an approaching train in either direction ratinot fail to see them, are three in number; red being the dansproaching train in either direction ratinot fail to see signal, green the cantion signal, and white the safety signal. These signals are illuminated an pixth, and show the same colors as by day. A train, say, approaches the station from either direction, and the engineer sees doe white signal displayed. This indicates that the track before blin, to the next station, be it one under or be it to mines, is clear, and the train dashes on. Instantly the operator lost go the cord (for he is obliged to hold the red of danger signal out of view by hand) and the red disk is displayed again. The object of this rule is, that it the operator should fall asleep the red signal would drop into view by its own weight, and say the operator refegraphs the fact each way, and enters on a crowd sheet the train number and the exact hame of its passing the station. The train having passed, the block it has left is clear, while that it has entered upon is closed. In a few minutes the click of the telegraph rells that it has passed the train stopping. Another freight train approaches. The red signal is displayed, and the train passes without slopping. Another freight train approaches. The red signal is displayed, and the train stops. In not less than the minutes after the block is appears in its place. This permits the waiting freight train as enter the block, but it must go with caution, so as not to run into the one in advance of it. Thus train after train escales and passes the signal station; sometimes brought to a played, and the principle of the system is to let no train into the block in the rear of a passenger train, and to allow other trains to proceed at foll special look on the rear of a passenger train, and to allow other trains to proceed at foll special becomes the signals from the train alread of them Tomperance Leriers, Rev. EAST WEYMOUTH.

The Sunday School connected with the Union Church held its anniversary in the e quartette.

Deep in the shadows of the past,
The last year's steps descend;
They bear its record far and fast,
We may not blot nor mend.

Deeds tell the story of its life That words have failed to reach; What issue has its varied strife? What lesson does it teach?

What lesson does it teach?

Has it enough of housest worth
To win the Master's praise?

Springs in our souls a notification its well ghosen wa.

Beyond our reach, beyond our sight,
It flies beyond recall;
Yel, o'er the future casts its light,
Lest we should stray and fall.

May its success invoire our seal,

May its success inspire our acal,
lis failures guard nor way,
Then, this year's service shall reveal
A work that God shall praise.

The superintandent thon Introduced Col. U. A. Happnod, of Brookline, an old worker in the Sunday School field. His address consisted of stories of a most interesting nature, which were used to illustrate some Biblical truths which he wished to bring out. The first of these was about an officer—the speaker—who had his life saved at Chancolloville by a buflet, from a loaded shell, striking a small volume of the look of Psalms which he carried in his vest pocket. The other was to show that the golden rule is a safe rule. While the Cohonel's regiment wasdoing guard duty at Point Lookout they were very kind to the Confederate prisoners. The rebels were more quiet when that regiment,—the N. H. 5th—was on duty than when any other one was, for the others abused thero. DEATH OF THE GIANT

POR the last five hundred years, thousands have experimented in attempts to bring to perfection or radical cure for une of the greatest afflictions of mankind, the giant lineumatism. Of the many remedies now used for this great cell, there is but an etiast will performently cure and drive away this great affliction. EIMGAR F. CMIPER, of East Weynouth, his at hest tilesowered and perfected a SURK AND RADICAL CURK FOR THE WORST CASES OF

RHEUMATISM, SCIATICA. NEURALGIA, LAMENESS, STIFF&CONTRACTED JOINTS

This specific has been practically tested and has already cured several of the worst cases of SCLATIC HERUMATIS. The persons cured are residents of Eost Weymouth, and can testify themselves to the truth of this statement. One has had the complaint for five years, but could not find anything that would give relief until he tried mit eure. The first application gave instant relief, and in one week's time he was curtiely cured. This was over a year ago, and he has not had a nouch of it since.

The following testimonials are presented in proof of the phove statements, and others who have been cured are ready to testify to the value of

Great Rheumatic Cure.

A WONDERFUL CURE.

East Weymouth, May 2d, 1878, agod 75 years, do hereby testify that I was troubled with a severe pain in up foot and noke, and could not walk or step on it, and was obliged to give up my daily work. I knew that it was a bad case of both amountary Rhenmatism, but could get nothing to relieve it. I told my husband about it and he advised me to try Cooper's Great Illummate Cure, legat a bottle and I applied it, and he less than loif an hour I could walk as well as ever I could. have not been troubled with the pain sines, and I know that Cooper's Great Rhenmate Cure is the greatest blessing that was ever given to mankind. Surely the Great dehovah haspired this young man in promitigating this Great Cure. It has since cured my husband, William Phillips, ur Sciate libeumation, and I want all the wurld to know of this great Cure. I am now very chi, and will soon be called on next full Heaving Philter, buff during my stay on earth I shall always sound the praises of Cooper's Great Rheumatic Cure.

Signed. CHARLOTTE PHILLIPS.

TAUNTON, May 6th. 1878.

Mn. Emgar F. 1500pen & Cu.- East Weymfulls.

Dear Sirst—t have been laid up for two weeks with Inflammatory libermatism in my left arm which was swollen to about four times its natural size, and was very painful. It began to swell so rapidly that I became alarmed and colled in two doctors. They tried remethes without success, and at last pathered my and methed the committee would not at last pathered my and in the property of the swelling began to disappear and in half-a-dozen the swelling began to disappear and in half-a-dozen the swelling began to disappear and in half-a-dozen smaller though was at well as yer. Mine was indeed a smaller than the term should commence. At last one old fellow, who appeared like a respectable, though uneducated farmer, his spat.

"John" the swelling began to disappear and in half-a-dozen applications was as uch as eyer. More was indeed a women for one and I shall never be widnout your invaluable remedy.

Mns. ELtza Moore, Newcomb's Block.

In April, 1871, I commented using the remedy now known as Cooper's Great Rhenmatic Cure.—
Mr. Edgar F. Cooper told me he had a gure for Rhesmatism. I was at that time suffering from a severe utrack of Selate Illienmatism. I have had it for five years and have teled everything that was offered for sale, but could gain no reinf until 1 tried Cooper's Great Bhenmatic Cure. I used two battles and I can say tolay that I have not been troubled with it since, and think I am entirely cared. I give this to the public to show that it is no humbing, but a sure and radical core of Bhenmatism. I advise very one that is suffering Today from Rhenmatism to try life great une sind be hoppy. I am now 53 years old. Signed. GEORIE MANUELL, Cummercial St.

East Weynouth, May 2nd, 1818.

I am now 76 years old, and have been troubled with Sciolte Illieumation for 7 years, and last Summer was ubliged to wear a plaster on my bock all the season, but could not find anything that would give relief. I had a shift, heavy pain in my hip and it troubled ne very sunch. I used Gooper's Great Rheumatic Cine, and in about an hour after using it the point wanished and it has not troubled me since. I was say that I am pays free from all Illieumation and I believe than it is the Greatest Cure for Rhemmatist that was ever introduced to the public. It is a poferely safe and sure cure of this great will, Illieumation. I can be seen at my residence on tons in regard to this matter. I am sure that Gooper's Great Rhemmatic Cure will cure the old as well as the roung.

The Methodist Episcipal Church has for several years past set apart one Sabbath as the "Children's Day," or "Floral Sunday" as it is familiarly called, and no pains has been spared to make the services especially interesting to the little ones. Last Sunday was the day selected for this year, and the floral decorations were elegant and abundant. Around the altar were stands, upon which were placed choice and beautifulent flowers, ferns, etc., and each shie of the alcove in front was trimmed with laurelin which were placed four crosses of dalsos. Over the pulpit was the text of the afternoon's discourse to the little ones, from Zecleariah, "And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls, playing in the streets thereof," Upon the wall back of the pulpit was fastened an upright cross, with the motto "Jesus a lone of Sharon, fastened in a semi-chele over it. In cormers of the house, to the right and left of the altar, were placed large hemlock trees decorated with hamisome flowers, and in which were suspended cages of sweet volced sungsters. Back River, in the days of Massasoit and his cod skurnet subjects, was, without doubt, a model place for oysters; the piles of shuckings which at times have been found on its hanks, proving that the dusky warriors made that a place of resort in days gone by, for the discussion of raws, stews, and tries. Capt. Lewis, of Weymouth, has petitioned the Selectimen for permission to plant the bivalves in the river, and if no objection is made to the project Weymouth oyalers may become as famous as Wareham or frovidence rivers.

Rev. Mr. Westgate, of Rockland, preached on an exchange with Rev. Thomas Emersom, last Sabbath. He had an excellent discourse, subject, Meditation as a means of grave. His texts were found in Psalms 1, 2, Psalms 109, 50, and 1 Thm. 4, 15,

The S. School library of North Parish has received a valuable addition, some $65 being raised for the purpose. The Parsonage Sale in Leyeum Hall last Briday evening, was a pecuniary ami social success. The results in eash amounted to $30,00. The entertainment consisted of day. The service will commence at six songs by a class of boys under Dr. Dearing's o'clock. training, and they snug thely, especially "A tarmer lived in a town near by," which was admirably rendered and called forth the heartiest applause. Miss Nellie Hollis also gave a song, but the clamor for lee cream just then made considerable disturbance and it was difficult to hear. She sustained herself remarkably well, under the circumstances, and sang thely. Mr. Asa P. French gave a reading, his selection be ing, "The Face against the pane," which was finely remlered. the received an encore, but did not respond. Mr. Waring, of Brooklyn, a student in Thayer Academy, who is litting for the examination at Har yard this summer, essayed a declamation, but for some unaccountable reason the words so familiar to him escaped tim, and tie gave it up. Every one was sorry, as he commenced finely, and a treat was looked for. It was a declamation for which he had taken a prize at school. We hope to be favored with it at the next Parsonage. Mrs. Holbrook read "Annty Doleful's Visit," and an encore, "Hans and Fritz." This meeting was a decided Improvement on the last quarterly sale in general sociabilliy: doubtless the cake and creams had something to do with that, but we think there is still roum for improvement.

The next Parsonage meeting will be with Mrs. Dr. Dearing, next Monday evening. And, by the way, we hear it whispered that the Sewing Circle will meet in July, with the Dr's, loiks, at Mears' beach. Wont that be jolly? "May I be there to see!"

The simlents of Thayer Academy are taking their yearly examinations this week. Womler how many will get 100. Tuesday, dune 25, closes the first year of this excellent school. From what we have seen of the inside workings of this Institution, its effects on the habits, business and social, of its pupils, and its results in the progress of those who have continued through the year as members of the school, we feel fully instilled in calling it an excellent school We hope the faithful teachers may thoroughly enjoy the season of rest which they have so truly earned, and wish for them in the inture, a continued prosperity, trusting they may see as fruitful results of their labors as they could desire.

Speaking of teachers, the public schools have lost one of their best teachers, Miss Alice Mason, who was married last week. We only speak from general report, never having visited her school, but in recalling the many good things we have heard of her as a teacher from those who have visited it, I am most inclined to quote the remark of an ageil clergyman who made such a visit some two years ago. He says, "Miss Mason is a queen in her school room; her pupals obey her, but they all love her," Such a teacher will be missed from the ranks, but she will doubtless lill any sta- Holmes, Webster, Loud, S. wishes for their peace and prosperity. Mr. Hosea Hayden, living on Poml street, or thereaiouts, bought some time ago a shifting top buggy of Mr. Rodolphus Porter. He took the top off and it was care fully put away in his barn. One night last week that top, by some malicious hamls, was cut into slits, and entirely ruined as far as the covering was concerned. They don't say who did it; perhaps they don't know. Do you suppose they guess? The grocery store of H. M. White, at Writing and Drawing. South Braintnee, was broken into Wednesday night. DEATH OF THE GIANT

Pioli the last five hundred years, thousands have experimented in attempts to bring to prefection a radical care for one of the greatest afficilous of markind, the giant libournatism. If the many remedies now need for this great evil, there is but one that will permanently care and drive away this great afficient EliGAR F. CHOPER, of East Weymouth, has at lest discovered and perfected a agric AND RADICAL CUIE FOR THE WORST CASES OF

This specific has been practically histerf and has already curred several of the worst cases of SCIATG REACGARTES. The persons erred are residents of East Weymonth, and can restly themselves to the health of this statement. One has had the complaint for five verse, but could not find anything that would give relief until he tried our cure. The first application gave bustom trillef, and in one work's time he was entirely cured. This was over a year ago, and he has not had a monch of it since.

The following he-timonials are presented in proof of the above statements, and others who have been cured are ready to testify to the value of HISDIAM, MASS, MAY 13, 1878.

Messes, Edgar F. Cooper & Co.:

Vesterday as 1 was attending my work 1 got hadly borned about the wrist with but steam from a boiling tea kettle. I had a battle of Cooper's Golean Becenary Core near a third and I honodiately applied is to the born, not knowing what the effect raight the. I knew that the RIELEMATIC CURE would allay any inflammation, and thought that I would bry it in this case. As soon admost as 1 applied is, the fire and pain left my wrist, and stronge as I may appear, the not even blister my skin. Ten minutes after 1 did not even know that 1 had been housed.

Although the appropriations were rushed through it the closing moments, and several important measures of public interest advanced a few stages, li left an lumense number of lifts unacted upon, including several board-bills at the hotels, and tradesmens bills, distributed with commendable impartiality throughout the city. It was his mournful privilege to attend the closing hours and to witness the dying agonies of the late lamented, as it closed its tired eyelids and sank peacefully to rest in the arms of several thousand weeping admirers, and an equal number of gratified opponents. It was a pathetic scene. It was scenic pathos personitied. And now that the agony of parting has been softened by the interim of several hours, I think I may stifle my emopassionale account of the mournful event. It was in the vicinity of midnight, when

TOWN AND VICINITY.

When we told that little connect story on dones last week, we had not blea that ones would have taken it so much at hear or really you know we admire Jones to less than we do croquet. And having noticed now admirably our friend wields the malet and how deftly he insignates the wooden globes through precisely the proper wickame, we decided that that portion of our early education having been so long meglected, should be so no longer. We took nr first lesson. We were directed by our partner-a lovely maiden of several sumiers-to place our ball in front of the first wicket and to use our utmost endeavors o propel the aforesaid ball through the aid wicket and the one next adjoining. We accomplished the feat. It not only went through the two wickers in question, but continued on through two others at the other end of the field, and would have loubtless passed on through the balance of he side wickets, had not a gentleman standing by casually interposed his knownan between the ball and its comse and should the storesaid T. The object we believe was to restone the ball from the distant portion of the field, to which it had ricocketed from the gentleman's knee-pan, to a position within the field and immediately contigu ars to the next wicket in our line of march, and required, according to our partner, onsiderable exertion of muscular nowe version; fifty or more standing on chairs. We promised to do or die. And we did. We have reason to believe that the force expended on this managave would if properly applied have raised the beam of the Corbss engine. The ball entered the field with evident satisfaction, and the speed of a locomotive, the party kindly scattering in all directions to give it passage, and we are positive would have settled itself at the desired nosttion, had it mot encountered a settled in his knees, was pursaing a crooked stone the size of a hea's egg, from which it [316, females 320,—645; Ward 3, males 243, the tiny foot of our charming partner. One of the most enjoyable excursions that we have ever particlpated in was that of the South Shibre Commandery, accomof the South Sibre Commandery, accompanied by the noted Weymouth Band, to Martha's Vineyard, last Monday (St John's Day). This is one of the largest Commonderies lift the district, and when their ranks are increased with delegations from Sutton, flay State, DeMolay and Ohl Colony Commanderies, in full regaila, escorted by these Weymouth Hand, it makes a display that will long be remembered by those who attended their excursion this year. They arrived at the Vineyard he thus to find a nost excellent dinner awaiting thou, to most excellent dinner awaiting them. It which they all seemed to do justice. The which they all seemed to do justice. The afternoon was spent in roying about, all hands being on their own hooks, the Band going in a body to the new church and playing some of their popular music. After supper the order was given to fall in, an invitation was extended to all visitors or residents, and the Band escorted about six hundred men, women and children, making Cak Huffs ring with their popular airs. nere pittance. They have spent hundreds! of dollars in miforming their company and of dollars in iniforming their company and heautifying their place of meeting. More has been spent in attending musters, where their steady stroke and well directed streams, united with the good judgment and long experience of her foreman, have made them victorious in more than one hard fought contrat. They have also spent much time and labor in matters of discipline and in promoting in various ways the interests of the Brahutec Fire Department. Surely such a commany should got its withs interests of the Braintee Fire Department.
Surely such a company should not be without suitable apparatus. They have long since earned the couldence of the cilizens and deserve better treatment at the hands of the homorable board of Engineers. It cannot be said that the board is short of finits, as the town at its annual needing granted them two hundred dollars more than was asked for. For the same reason the cilizens are not responsible. The rethe citizens are not responsible. The responsibility resis wholly with you—so re move it at more, and give the firemen proper apparatus.

MILK OF THE BEST QUALITY,

During a trip to Bald Mountain, the writer spent four days in the mountain region. The weather was very hot. The roads were carpeted with tumbiebigs, poplar blossoms, and small blue butterflies. A yellow honeysuckle tilled the air with sweet perfume, and blooming laurel swept the top of the buggy. The travelling was bad. All streams were forded. There were no bridges. So steep were the hills that the people this means and tell them the horse frequently tried to sit on his when and how to use them. My book hannches and slide down. In one instance the bed of a stream served as a in the practice of medicine, and I have road for fully a quarter of a mile. The soil is a blood-red clay, and the ratwere so deep that our hubs touched the ground. It is evidently a country of waterspouts, for great washouts tlanked the way like rebel enrthworks, and frequently cut out the roadbed. Water is turned from the road by a novel contrivance. Instead of the solid "thankyou-marms" so common in the North. pine logs, not larger than the mast of a vessel, are sunk transversely across the road and firmly pegged to the ground at both ends. They serve the purpose admirably, but loosen the running gear of a wagon, and the jolting after dark is not pleasant. There are many clearings and but little travel. In a drive of thirty-three miles we met only an old ox team Jriveu by a gray-headed man. He had reins on the horns of the animals. and was evidently unfamiliar with the terms "haw" and "gee." When we neared a house, the family usually ran in, closed the doors, and dropped the little muslin window curtains. As we drove past not a soul was to be seen, but on looking back from the wagon a half dozen heads peeped from the doors and
